Remember the Poor.

The season of grief has arrived,
And winter is hard at the door;
He whispers to all, "my power is revived,"
And tells us "remember the poor."

O think of the widow in need.
Whose heart is reft to the core,
And destined in sorrow to bleed,—
O think and "remember the poor."

Go visit the sick man in bed,
Or look at the couch on the floor—
His wife and his children—no bread!
And then you'll "remember the poor."

And when you sit around a good fire,
And hear the cold winds as they roar,
Just ask, if you've thought to inquire
For those without wood that are poor.

Misfortune has marked for her prey
One half of mankind, if not more;
The rich, and the proud, and the gay,
May yet become humbled and poor.

Let those who are happy to-day,
Think not that their troubles are o'er;
Be mindful, and never delay
Relief to the needy and poor.

When widow and fatherless cry
For help for their wants at your door,
O let them not starve till they die,
They know what it is to be poor.

It surely is blessed to give
To those who are suffering sore;
More bless'd than it is to receive;
O then do "remember the poor."

A Novel Revenge.

The coffin was a plain one—a poor, miserable pine coffin. No flowers on the top; no lining of white satin for the pale brow; no [illegible] about the scanty shroud. The brown hair was laid decently back, but there was no crimpled cap with neat tie beneath the chin. The sufferer of cruel poverty smiled in her sleep; she had found bread, rest and health. "I want to see my mother," sobbed a poor little child, as the undertaker screwed down the top.

"You cannot; get out of the way, boy; why don't some one take the brat?"

"Only let me see her one minute," cried the helpless orphan, clutching the charity box, as he gazed upon the coffin, agonized tears streaming down the cheeks on which no childish bloom ever lingered. O! it was painful to hear him cry the words, "Only once; let me see mother, only once."

Quickly and brutally the heartless monster struck the boy away, so that he reeled with the blow. For a moment the boy stood panting with grief and rage—his blue eyes distend, his lips sprang apart, fire glistened through his eyes as he raised his little arm with a most unchildish laugh, and screamed:

"When I'm a man I'll be revenged for that!"

There was the coffin and a heap of earth between the mother and the poor forsaken child—a monument much stronger than granite built in the boy's heart the memory of the heartless deed. * * *

The court house was crowded to suffocation.

"Does any one appear as this man's cousel?" asked the Judge.

There was a silence when he had finished, until, with lips tightly pressed together, a look of strange intelligence blended with a haughty reserve upon his handsome features, a young man stepped forward with a firm tread and kindly eye to plead for the friendless one. He was a stranger, but at the first sentence there was silence. The splendor of his genius entranced—convinced.

The man who could not find a friend was acquitted.

"May God bless you, sir, I cannot," he exclaimed.

"I want no thanks, replied the stranger.

"I—I—I believe you are unknown to me."

"Sir, I will refresh your memory. Twenty years ago this day you struck a broken-hearted little boy away from his dead mother's coffin. I was that boy."

[illegible] turned [illegible]

"Have you rescued me, then, to take my life?"

"No, I have a sweeter revenge. I have saved the life of a man whose brutal conduct has rankled in my breast for the last twenty years. Go, then, and remember the tears of a friendless child."

The man bowed his head in shame and went from the presence of magnanimity, as grand to him as it was incomprehensible.

The Secret.

"I noticed," said Dr. Franklin, "a mechanic, among others, at work on a house erecting a little way from my office, who always happened to be in a merry humor, who had a kind and cheerful smile for every one he met. Let the day be ever so cold, gloomy, or sunless, a happy smile danced like a sunbeam on his countenance. Meeting him one morning, I asked him to tell me the secret of his happy flow of spirits. 'My secret, doctor,' he replied, 'is that I have got one of the best of wives, and when I go to work she always has a kind word of encouragement for me, and when I go home she meets me with a smile and kiss; and then tea is sure to be ready, and she has done so many little things through the day to please me that I cannot find it in my heart to speak an unkind word to anybody.' What an influence, then, hath woman over the heart of man, to soften it and make it the fountain of cheerful and pure emotions! Speak gently, then—a happy smile and a kind word of greeting, after the toils of the day are over, cost nothing, and go far toward making home happy and peaceful."

Wit and Wisdom.

He that is trusty in little shall be trusted with more.

An acorn cannot make much headway in a flower-pot.

Take away the self-conceit and there will be more elbow-room in the world.

One of the kindest things heaven has done for man is denying him the power of looking into the future.

Bad habits are the thistles of the heart, and every indulgence in them is a seed from which will come forth a crop of rank weeds.

Whoever looks for a friend without imperfections will never find what he seeks. We love ourselves with all our faults, and we ought to love our friends in a like manner.

An inveterate old wag, seeing a heavy door nearly off its hinges, in which condition of neglect it had been left for some time, observed that when it had fallen and killed some one it would probably be hung.

"My case is just here," said a citizen to a lawyer; "the plaintiff will swear that I hit him. I will swear that I did not. Now, what can you lawyers make out of that if we go to trial?" "Five dollars apiece," was the prompt reply.

Vanity may be likened to the smooth-skinned and velvet-footed mouse, nibbling about forever in expectation of a crumb, while self-esteem is too apt to take the likeness of a huge butchers' dog, who carries off your steak and growls at you as he goes.

"Yes, sah," said the old colored man "de firs' yeah, when I giv fifty dollars to de church, dey call me Mistah Richad Johnson, Esquah; de secon' yeah times was bad an' I couldn't giv no moah than twenty-five dollahs, an' dey call me Bruddah Johnson; de next yeah I couldn't giv nuffin', an' dey call me ole niggah Johnson."

Messrs. Sanborn and Hoyt.

(From the Fernandina Express.)

This leading firm of Fernandina, Fla., has always kept on hand one of the largest stocks in the city, but they have so materially increased it during the past week that we deem it worthy of mention. We invite particular attention to their immense stock of Furniture, consisting of parlor, chamber and dining sets, chairs, from the cheapest to the most expensive, centre tables of all kinds, and in fact every description of household furniture. Messrs. Sanborn & Hoyt recognize the importance of keeping these articles on hand, and are determined to supply the wants of the citizens, not only of Fernandina, but of all parts of the state accessible by rail road or steamboat navigation, and in order to secure patronage have placed their goods at the lowest possible prices. In making a tour of inspection through their large establishment, we noticed not only an increase in their stock of furniture, but also in provisions, ship stores, and general merchandise. It must be borne in mind that theirs is a wholesale as well as retail establishment, and the merchants of our inland cities and towns will find that they can obtain as favorable bargains from Sanborn & Hoyt, as from dealers in Savannah, Jacksonville, or elsewhere. Farmers will also find it to their advantage to send to this firm for their seed potatoes, as they are now offering a large stock of extra Early Rose at low prices. We will remark parenthetically that the firm of Sanborn & Hoyt is one of the oldest in Fernandina, and is consequently a reliable one.

Centre Harbor.

It is reported that George Goodwin is very sick. He has been troubled for a year past with a lung difficulty.

Benson's Orchestra had their first of a series of Promenade Concerts on Wednesday evening of last week—there was room for all.

Fred Brown has just received a new Sawyer at his house. Well done Fred, it will give you more time now to devote to the cultivation of music.

Marcus' Villa is done, the carpenters have all gone home to Boston, having been steady at work for 22 weeks, 20 men being employed some of the time. It is a splendid building.

The infant son of George Berry died on the 17th inst. of throat disease, which has been raging to quite an alarming extent in that neighborhood, old as well as young being attacked with it.

The Rustic Band is talking of having a benefit at an early date, and we feel sure of a musical treat when they do, for there is a goodly amount of talent amongst the boys. Come, hurry up for "procrastination is the thief of time."

We noticed in last week's NEWS an item inquiring for a lost "Star that once shone so bright in the firmament." It is very evident that the writer is new, or has been down amongst the coals of late, or is like Rip Van Winkle, having taken a big sleep; still we are ready to concede that this is the off year with all the organizations hereabouts, but never mind, the blue birds will soon sing again.

Ashland.

Jordan's Novelty Company comes here Jan. 18.

Mr. S. S. French of Concord, the piano tuner, is in town again.

There was a good deal of shovel work in the door yards Tuesday morning.

John H. Eastman will run the milk route formerly kept by Orren Clough.

A fire broke out in the house of D. C. Merrill Sunday morning. Damage slight.

Miss Emma J. Fellows, teacher of the Grammar school was obliged to give up her school on account of sickness.

The Live Oak Division were to visit the Rumney Division Jan. 14, but owing to bad weather the visit was postponed.

Dexter Sanborn and Jontie M. Cheney are at Boston weighing mails, also Geo. B. Gordon on the Boston & Troy route.

The heavy fall of snow here Monday, delayed the mails so that the mail train south did not get here until nine o'clock in the evening.

The next in the course of lectures will be held in the F. W. Baptist Church instead of the Town Hall. Subject: "Centripetal and Centrifugal forces."

The young ladies of the Free Will Baptist church held their circle at the Town Hall Jan. 13, at which all reported a good time. Music was furnished by the Ashland Sextette Band.

We shall endeavor to make the NEWS an interesting paper for Ashland people, and shall send a few specimen copies, that it may show for itself, hoping that by its low rates of subscription, and with the aid of a good correspondent, it may merit for itself a large circulation in your vicinity. Mr. Frank E. Shepard is authorized to take subscriptions. Try it.

MILLINERY.

I would respectfully announce to the Ladies of Meredith and vicinity that I have just returned from Boston, with a full and complete line of

"Much ado about nothing." There is some little gossip about Mr. Shephard driving some ladies out to ride. I do not see why anybody, white or black, should object to Mr. Shepard. He is a careful driver and a trustworthy man. F.

We have seen one of the Syracuse Plow Co's celebrated Chilled Plows, with Steel Beam, which is on exhibit at French's store. It is superiorly constructed, and for durability in the rough soil of this section, cannot be beaten by any other make. See "ad."

On Wednesday evening last the lodge of Odd Fellows in this village visited Bro. Wm. Robie and wife, of New Hampton. The evening spent was a very pleasant one and was interspersed with games and a bountiful collation, after which a fine extension table and a pair of napkin rings were presented to the happy couple. The party broke up about midnight.

Rev. E. A. Whittier, the well known Evangelist, will hold a series of meetings with the churches in this place next week. It is desired that all christian people take an interest in the matter, and so arrange their affairs as to attend. Mr. Whittier will be accompanied by his wife. The Moody and Sankey Hymns will be used. These services will be for all the people and all are invited. Meetings will be held every afternoon at 2 1-2 o'clock, and every evening at 7 o'clock.

Owing to the increasing demand for space in our advertising columns, we shall publish a supplement with each issue of our paper during the winter, and propose to enlarge the same to double its present size in the early spring, when we shall be prepared to furnish posters printed with the latest novelties in wood type from 7 x 9 to 99 x 100, more or less. We intend that Meredith shall be better supplied with facilities for printing of all kinds than any other town of its size in the county, and we do not propose to be left behind.

At the Lyceum meeting last Friday evening, H. W. Lincoln was chosen president pro tem. and a committee was appointed to nominate a list of officers, and to arrange an order of exercises for the next meeting, which is to be held in Sanborn's Hall, on Friday evening of next week. The following is the program:

Declamations, Essay, Select Reading, Discussion: Resolved: That our paths are formed for us by circumstances rather than by our own efforts.

Let all interested be present at 7:30 o'clock.
